<td>Food access programs provides new access points to nutritious and affordable food in underserved communities. The Foodlink food bank works with area food retailers, manufacturers, and wholesalers to acquire, sort, store, and redistribute food to our member programs, namely soup kitchens, shelters, and emergency food pantries. In addition, Foodlink provides food to hundreds of non-emergency programs such as group homes and senior centers, helping nonprofit agencies save vital dollars on their food budget so their scarce resources can be redirected to their programs.</td>
